[redacted] was contacted at her home. [redacted]

[redacted] in the presence of [redacted]
She was advised of the official identities of the interviewing Agents by SA [redacted]. She was also advised of the FBI's interest and jurisdiction regarding attempted assassinations of the President of the United States, at which time she provided the following information; indicating that under no circumstances did she want her name and address made available to the news media:

While [redacted] was growing up, ^{Calif} she had a happy childhood, and was socially well adjusted. She was an excellent student in her lower grades, in the schools in the Westchester area of Los Angeles, California. The family resided for 14 years in Westchester. Then, the year before her senior year in high school, the [redacted] family moved from Westchester to Redondo Beach, California; and [redacted] was entered in Redondo Beach High School.

b7C

From the time of her birth, until about her sophomore year in high school, [redacted] was her father's favorite child. She had been a happy, loving, outgoing child; although she was also headstrong, sensitive and highstrung. When she got an idea, it was hard to dislodge.

She was active in a Westchester youth dance group, and traveled across the country with them for different dance recitals and exhibitions; and in fact, also made a trip to Alaska with them.

About the time [] was to enter her senior year in high school, the family moved again. This time they moved from Redondo Beach to []

[] The [] family lived in [] for nine years, prior to moving to their present location in [] about 1½ years ago, in May, 1974.

b6
b7C

[] who had just had her high school routine interrupted by the move from Westchester to Redondo Beach, prevailed upon her parents to allow her to continue at Redondo Beach High School rather than start all over in an entirely new school, with classmates unknown to her, in her senior year. Her parents consented, as long as she agreed to move in with a family in Redondo Beach, known to them; which [] did. From that point onward her relationship with her own family deteriorated and went downhill. She became hard to manage and had frequent arguments with the other [] family members; particularly with []. Her scholastic achievements fell off during her senior year, and she took up smoking, which [] disapproved. He became really angry with her on one occasion about this time, when she set fire to her bed, while smoking in bed. [] said that even she and [] had serious misunderstandings. [] would become extremely unruly when home alone with [] but would usually straighten up when [] would come home. She recalled that on one occasion, in about 1967 (she said the time frame is hazy), when they were alone in the house together having an argument, [] confronted [] with a butcher knife. [] either lunged or threw the knife at []. It missed and stuck in the wall. She made no effort to retrieve the knife or make any further attack upon her mother.

[] said she never had any personal knowledge that [] was using or abusing narcotics or dangerous drugs.

After graduation from Redondo Beach High School, [] and her girl friend moved out of the girl friend's parents' home and into their own apartment. [] got a job as a credit verifier for a furniture company. [] boyfriend wanted them to get married. [] and just out of high school, was not quite ready to take on the responsibilities of marriage,

b6
b7C

so she attempted to get him to delay such plans. Her boyfriend turned right around and married her roommate. This was a great traumatic shock. This rejection was more than [] could handle alone; and she attempted suicide, by slashing her wrists. The family learned of this and took her to a hospital to have the wounds sutured. [] then sought to obtain psychiatric help for her; but she did not respond to the consultations, and later again attempted to take her own life by consuming an entire bottle of either Excedrin or aspirin. Again her parents took her to an emergency hospital, this time to have her stomach pumped.

b6
b7C

[] recalled that [] felt so alienated from [] that on one occasion she commented, "I don't care if he hits me, just as long as he pays attention to me."

b6
b7C

[] was always a "night person" according to [] [] She frequently was up late at night after the other members of the family were long in bed. One night she wrote or drew pictures on all the walls in the house, while the rest of the family was asleep. When [] awoke the next morning (Memorial Day, 1967) and saw the mess, he was highly incensed. He banished her from the dining table, stating that she could not eat with the family. Headstrong as she was, she said that she would leave home if he would not allow her to eat with the family. [] then told her if she left she was not to come back. Apparently, from things [] has heard subsequently, when [] left the house on that occasion she was picked up by CHARLES MANSON and thereafter became a member of his so-called "MANSON Family". [] recalled no further face-to-face contacts with [] again until the Spring of 1973.

b7C

In 1972, after being arrested on suspicion of murder in Stockton, California, the Los Angeles authorities put a hold on her for return to Los Angeles on charges of suspicion of robbery. She was returned to Los Angeles and housed in Sybil Brand Women's Jail, until the charges were later dismissed. While so incarcerated in early 1973, [] and other members of the [] family visited [] at the jail, and

b6
b7C

LA 175-113

convinced her that she should return home with them upon her release, which she did. [] said that if her thinking (along MANSON Family lines) had not changed that he did not want her in his house. She remained at the [] home for two days, and again left, and [] has not seen her since.

b6

The only contacts [] has had with [] since that time consist of infrequent cards or short notes, usually averaging about three per year on birthdays, or at Easter and Christmas. The last communication [] had was a short note enclosed with two dolls [] sent her. In the note [] indicated she thought one of the dolls resembled [] so she thought [] would want it.

Subsequent to her high school graduation, [] attended El Camino College, a Junior College, in Torrance, California, for a short time, and more recently was enrolled in Sacramento, California, taking approximately three subjects, two of which [] believed to have been English and Ecology. [] said that [] hoped that getting back into a college environment would bring her thinking back somewhat closer to their own, so that eventually they could get her away from the control of the MANSON Family. When [] advised the family she had enrolled at Sacramento she indicated she was lucky and had gotten some sort of a grant.

b7c

[] recalled [] having indicated that she and others of the MANSON Family were stockpiling food where it would be safe in the desert to carry the MANSON Family through as a family when they were all released from prison. [] said she had no details as to where the site of this cache might be located.

While growing up as a member of the [] household, [] had no experience with firearms as [] was drastically opposed to them. The only gun that was ever allowed in the house was a "BB" gun that [] had for a very short while.

To the best of [] knowledge, none of the members of the [] were known to [] prior to [] original meeting with [] She was not drawn into the group by school chums or former neighbors.

[redacted]
[redacted] was interviewed and furnished the following information concerning [redacted]. She attended Westchester High School, Westchester, California for her Freshman and Sophomore years. The family moved to Redondo Beach, California where [redacted] spent her Junior year of High School. The family moved to Torrance, California and adjacent community and [redacted] requested to live with a friend so she could finish her Senior year at Redondo Beach High School. This request was granted. Following her graduation she returned home to live.

b6
b7C

[redacted] was a good student during High School. She was popular but self-centered. Following her enrollment at El Camino Junior College, Torrance, she changed her attitude toward home life keeping her thoughts and problems to herself and displayed a jealousy toward [redacted]. She would display a hostile and belligerent attitude during the day time in the absence of [redacted] from home but when he returned home she would become docile. On one occasion she threatened [redacted] with a butcher knife.

b6
b7C

On another occasion while being disciplined she stated to [redacted] "I wouldn't care if you hit me, just as long as I know you know I am here."

[redacted] had started smoking, probably during the period she was attending El Camino College and was also smoking marijuana which was against her parents wishes. On one occasion she was in her parents bedroom using the telephone and smoking when she burned the bedspread.

[redacted] continued that he and [redacted] were preparing to leave on a vacation and were concerned about the safety of their residence and [redacted] smoking. She was told she would have to stop or she could not stay at the family home while they were gone. [redacted] then left home in May, 1967.

had cut her wrist following her declining a marriage proposal and her boyfriend married her roommate. The second time she took approximately $\frac{1}{2}$ bottle of aspirin and an unknown quantity of wine which necessitated having to have her stomach pumped.

[] was under the care of a psychologist, one [] [] Redondo Beach for approximately two months. She was scheduled for two appointments a week although [] felt she missed at least 20% of the appointments. He contacted [] to determine what progress [] was making but [] declined to discuss the matter with him as he felt it would be a disadvantage to his patient.

b6

[] stated that while at home [] never had access to guns. The family never had guns at home with the exception of a B-B gun. On occasions when they would be in the desert as a family and would have target practice with the B-B gun, [] never participated.

[] had an inheritance of $1,000 from the will of an [] which was being held in trust for her until she was 21 years old or married. In approximately 1968 she came home and showed her parents what appeared to be a bonafied marriage certificate, complete with witnesses signatures and a seal showing her marriage to [] in Santa Monica, California. Following this she was given her inheritance.

[] had previously requested money and received money from her [] who are now 85 years of age, senile and reside in Brooklyn, New York.

[] stated that [] to the best of his knowledge, had never had a child. She was pregnant on one occasion but had a miscarriage due to the RH negative blood factor.

[] stated he has not seen [] for $2\frac{1}{2}$ years. At that time she had been released from Sybil Brand Institute after charges against her for armed robbery had been dismissed. [] had decided to try to help [] rehabilitate herself and she returned home. She remained for two days. [] told [] that she would have to give up her association with the MANSON family and that her family was the []. [] told him she would never give up her friends and left home.

[] She wrote to him requesting $2000 or $2500 in order to have an advanced printing of 300 copies of a book she was writing. He declined to offer and advised her that if the book was worthwhile a publisher would pay her for the rights of the book.

b6
b7C

[] stated that the last time he saw [] she told him that the Blacks were going to take over control of the country and that following the conflict between the Blacks and the Whites, CHARLES MANSON and his family would come forth and save the country. [] stated that she believed everything MANSON ever told her.

b6

Lieutenant [redacted], California Institution for Women (CIW), Department of Corrections, advised that he is that agency's investigator and senior officer in the Psychiatric Training Unit (PTU). [redacted] stated that four members of the MANSON family are presently incarcerated at CIW in the PTU. These four are [redacted]

b6
b7C

[redacted] said that he personally reads all incoming and outgoing mail relative to these four inmates. He further advised that he has frequent contact with each of these individuals. He said that it is his opinion and that of the other correctional officers that the four former MANSON family members have all earnestly rejected MANSON and his remaining followers. He stated that each has firmly requested that all mail from MANSON, [redacted] be returned. He further said that he was reasonably certain that none of the four above mention inmates have had any recent personal contact with the MANSON family not in custody.

b6
b7C

[redacted] stated that because of the circumstances surrounding the incarceration of the four inmates, he has taken a personal interest in them. He said that he has copied numerous pieces of correspondence both received and sent by these inmates and would make this information available if it would assist in the current FBI investigation. [redacted] furnished the communications with a copy of a letter received by [redacted] on September 6, 1975. This letter was addressed to [redacted] and bore the return address [redacted]

[redacted] This letter was postmarked "U. S. Postal Service, CA359, September 5, 1975. [redacted] stated that he had confirmed that this zip code was from a Sacramento Post Office.

b6
b7C

He further advised that he had discussed the contents of this letter with [redacted] and she told him that he believed that it had been written by either [redacted] or [redacted]. He said that she told him that there was no message in the letter and that she described it as "acid talk".

[redacted] while incarcerated at the Chino Institution for Women (CIW), Psychiatric Training Unit (PTU), was advised of the official identity of the interviewing agent by a display of credentials. [redacted] was then informed that the purpose of the interview was in connection with the attempted assassination of President FORD by [redacted]

b7C

[redacted] advised that for approximately two years she had had no contact with CHARLES MANSON, [redacted]. She said that in July of 1974, after [redacted] had inquired as to [redacted] status, she [redacted] received six letters in seven days from the aforementioned MANSON family. She advised that by her request, the institution returned all of these letters and she was only informed that the letters had arrived and did not actually see them. She said the only exception to the above was that she received a postcard from CHARLES MANSON and he wanted to renew their previous association and begin corresponding. She stated that she wrote a postcard to him positively stating that she wanted nothing more to do with him and that he was not to write to her anymore.

b7C

She said until approximately two weeks ago she had received no correspondence from any of the other MANSON associates until she received a letter with a return name of [redacted]. The only thing in this letter was a card with a picture of the universe on it and the words "can you conquer the universe". [redacted] advised that she had seen a card similar to this approximately five years ago. She said cards of this nature were distributed with a book by [redacted] (phonetic). The title of this book which deals with the hippy element was entitled [redacted] [redacted] and the author is an associate of [redacted]

b6

that a letter from [] had been received and returned as per her request.

[] was then shown a copy of a letter which had been mailed to her on September 5, 1975, and received by her on September 6, 1975. [] stated that the letter was written by either [] or [] but she was not certain which. She was sure it was one of them because of the contents of the letter. She said that she could find no message in the letter and described it as "acid talk" and it was a put-down of her for rejecting MANSON. She stated that whoever wrote the letter had been in contact with MANSON because the word "wimp" was used and she had previously used the word wimp when writing to MANSON informing him that she no longer wished to be associated with him.

[] reiterated that she had attempted to avoid any of the MANSON family other than the three associates who were at CIW and has no information regarding the assassination attempt on President FORD. She stated that when he heard of the attempt that she was somewhat surprised and could not think of a person who would be able to furnish information if there was indeed a conspiracy.

She said she stayed at the Spahn Ranch for about one month and then left for two weeks. She returned to the ranch after the Tate-La Bianca murders for a short time before moving with the Manson family to Death Valley, California. The day before the raid occurred in Death Valley by police authorities she and [redacted] (phonetic) ran away from the camp into the nearby mountains. The next day when they saw the law enforcement authorities in the area they surrendered themselves. She was returned to Los Angeles where she spent several weeks in juvenile detention and was then released to her parents.

She advised about September 1970 she again lived with the Manson family and it was not until about November 1971 that she returned to her parents' home. Thereafter she had little contact with any of the Manson family as they no longer trusted her. The most recent contact she can recall was approximately three years ago when she saw [redacted] whose real name is [redacted] (last name unknown). About this same time she saw [redacted]. She saw them both in Los Angeles, California. She said it was about this time the Manson people were moving to the Sacramento, California area. [redacted] obviously did not trust her and did not tell her anything about their plans.

a "Manson girl", was interviewed at the California Institution for Women, Frontera, where she is serving time in connection with the mutilation slaying of a United States Marine and his wife in Stockton, California, during November, 1972.

[redacted] advised she has been in custody of prison authorities since November, 1972. She is not and never has been a "Manson girl" and any such reference to her in the media or otherwise as having any connection whatever with the "Manson family" is untrue and detrimental to future parole considerations.

b7C

[redacted] said that during early 1972 she was living in San Jose, California, with one [redacted] who decided to take her to live in the Los Angeles area. During mid-1972 she inadvertently met [redacted]. At the outset of her brief acquaintance with [redacted] and [redacted] it became clear to them that she [redacted] would not put up with their abstract and vague philosophies. When they began talking "in circles" about things like, "What is truth?" and, "What is reality?", she told them, "Look, if you can't run it to me (explain what you're talking about), forget it." Consequently, she did not "hit it off" with [redacted] and [redacted] when she met them and she had very little contact with them thereafter, meeting them only on a couple of occasions. She knew [redacted] a little better but for a brief period, perhaps only a couple of months. She was never close to [redacted] until after their arrest in November, 1972, when they were co-defendants in connection with the crime for which she is now serving time. [redacted] she said, who was a "Manson girl", broke from the ranks of [redacted] and is currently doing fine as a non-Manson girl.

b6
b7C

[redacted] said that her only association with the Manson family was during the couple of months noted above and on only brief occasions when she met with the three individuals mentioned. Though they talked like "nuts" there were no occasions during which statements were made regarding the planned assassination of the President of the United States or any other personality, no mention of an alleged Manson "death list" and nothing to indicate there was a conspiracy to commit a criminal act of any kind. Neither was there any mention by [redacted] during their brief association, that any such statements were made by any member of the Manson family.

He stated that he and [redacted] started reading the bible seven years ago and although they are not members of any denomination they feel that they are doing good by doing what the bible says for them to do.

He stated that [redacted] had sent MANSON a bible which was returned and then she wrote some letters to the institution and got permission to write to MANSON. After she wrote a letter or two to CHARLES MANSON she observed that MANSON had no respect for women. She thought it would be better if he wrote to MANSON instead of her. He stated he wrote about nine or ten letters to CHARLES MANSON trying to help him adjust his thinking along the lines of CHRIST.

[redacted] stated that MANSON returned his letters and that his letters shifted back and forth between hostility and gentleness. [redacted] stated that his letters were very religious and he tried to explain to MANSON that he could not change the world but that God would have to do it. [redacted] advised that MANSON told him in one of his letters that "people were using his family, his girls". They were telling them what to do and that the girls were "running wild".
He stated he wanted them to stop but he was not able to [] stated he wrote two or or three letters to each girl telling them that they could not change the cycle of events. He stated that they cannot change things with force and anger.

[] stated that both girls wrote to him rather rambling, erratic letters. They did not threaten anyone in the letters but the letters reflected hate for those violating the ecology.

b6
b7C

[] stated that MANSON told him in one of the letters he would like to have a guitar but that the state would not supply him one. He was not permitted visitors and when he went into the yard he was attacked. He said he needed a guitar for his own sanity. [] stated he sent MANSON $50 hoping he would be permitted to buy a guitar with this. He stated MANSON was then moved to San Quentin and he received a couple letters from him there and that MANSON had thanked him profusely for the money but that he did not mention whether he got the guitar with the money.

[] stated that he still had the letters written by MANSON and the girls but he made a promise to MANSON that he would not tell MANSON's inner feelings to anyone if MANSON wrote to him and, therefore, he feels that he made a secret promise to MANSON not to turn over his letters.

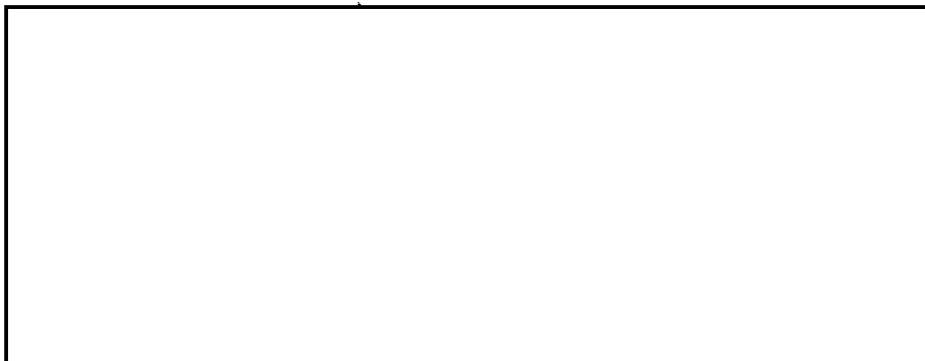

[] stated that he had written to approximately seven other prisoners in Folsom Prison other than MANSON all with the hope of turning them towards CHRIST.

For his prosecution of CHARLES MANSON;

For his position as Director of the California Department of Corrections in whom's custody CHARLES MANSON remained; and additionally for some personal arguments he had with [] concerning MANSON.

The discussions were generally precipitated and led by [] She is CHARLES MANSON's number 1 girl and the strongest force of the MANSON family outside the prison. [] talked about killing the above mentioned and did not seem concerned if caught. The basic theme was to bring attention to the injustice done to CHARLES MANSON. [] at that time, was also writing a book on the MANSON family which she felt would bring additional attention to the situation. Letters were received on a continuing basis from CHARLES MANSON and [] believed some of them mentioned these individuals if not specifically then through the particular innuendo style that MANSON practiced. [] said it was always difficult to understand MANSON's letters, which however seemed easily understood by the girls.

During these discussions, [] always took a negative approach telling them it was senseless "bullshit" and nothing would ever be gained by such action. He felt he was the only force preventing them at times from carrying out these actions. [] had heated discussions regarding these assassinations over extended periods of time lasting several hours. The discussions never reached the point of specific planning and targeting. Rather, they talked about methods of assassination plans regarding the movements of these people, and how best to accomplish the act. [] stated

He and [redacted] were swimming in the American River at River Park in Sacramento and he believes the date that they were swimming was August 9, 1975. At approximately 5:30 to 6:00 PM they met two white females who were also swimming. One of the females had blonde hair and the other female had red hair. Both females were approximately in their mid 20's. The redhead had freckles all over. He was unable to recall their names.

[redacted] has always been interested in ecology and [redacted] approached the two females regarding an empty beer can that he discovered in the area where they were swimming.

He introduced himself as [redacted] from Morro Bay, California.

b6

The blonde female appeared to do all the talking. At first the conversation was in general terms concerning the ecology. After she had been talking awhile, the blonde said that some people will have to be put to death to call attention to the harm they and their respective corporations have done to the ecology. She mentioned a name of an individual and a particular aluminum corporation but he was unable to recall the individual's name or the name of the corporation. The blonde also said that heads of corporations would have to be killed because of the harm their corporations have done to the ecology. He does not recall that she mentioned the names or the word utilities. She did not at any time mention any politicians or make any mention concerning politics. She did not say anything about the President of the United States.

The blonde did say that she and the redhead belonged to a group who were interested in protecting the ecology but she did not identify the group.

The blonde did state that she had friends who were serving life sentences in prison because they did do something.

He does not recall any words that the redhead said during the conversation but she indicated that she was in agreement with everything the blonde female said.

He is not familiar with the name [redacted]
[redacted] He has seen [redacted] on television in connection with the attempted assassination of President FORD. At the time he saw her on television he did not connect her with the redhead he had seen while they were in Sacramento but he is certain now that she is identical with the redhead he met while swimming in Sacramento.

The blonde female asked him and [redacted] if they would be willing to remail letters to the government regarding the ecology to give the impression that the letters were being sent from different parts of the country if she sent them letters to remail.

[redacted] furnished his address to the blonde female but [redacted] declined to do so. He has not had any further contact with the two females or with anyone connected with them. The only time he ever had contact with the two females was when he was swimming with them in Sacramento in August, 1975.
